What is branded content

Branded content is an up-and-coming multimedia format. It can be an illustrated longread, an in-browser game, a video, or a landing page. It bears the visual identity or the name of the brand behind it, hence the name.

Companies use this kind of content to reinforce their brand while reaching out to, engaging and retaining their target audiences.

Branded content is proven to be beneficial for audiences and brands alike. The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Guardian, and other major publications use it to that end.

Branded content effect on audience	Branded content effect on brand
Entertains, informs, and educates	Reinforces the brand
Meets the audience's interests and needs	Engages and retains the audience
Showcases strong brands	Attracts new users or customers
